New Family Doctor Taking Patients in London

More welcome news for thousands of Londoners without primary health care. The Family Medical Centre is pleased to announce a new family doctor will begin taking patients on August 20, 2007.

Dr. Jennifer Meer, who is originally from Alberta, is a graduate of the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland. She completed her residency program at the prestigious Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota. Dr. Meer has just opened a new practice at the Family Medical Centre located at 611 Wonderland Road and is accepting new patients.

"We're delighted Dr. Meer has chosen London," says Mayor Anne Marie DeCicco-Best. "This important practice, coupled with several others announced in recent years, indicates we are succeeding with our dedicated efforts to recruit more family doctors to our community, and our efforts will continue."

Londoners without a current family doctor may pick up patient applications at The Family Medical Centre located at 611 Wonderland Road North in the Rexall Pharma Plus Building beginning immediately. Applications will be available at the front desk in the doctor's office.

Londoners are also encouraged to check the City of London website at www.london.ca under the Health and Education tab for an ongoing list of family doctors accepting new patients in the community.
